

The product of one reaction is the substrate of the subsequent reaction.

